Borromeo coat of arms with a biscione or serpent eating a child above the unicorn. The camel refers to them having a portion of Arab ancestry. The rings represent binds and marriage. The Borromeos have a close alliance with the Ferragamos of Florence. Gamos means marriage. The Borromeo motto of "humility" is written at the top in Gothic lettering likely suggesting their humility towards the higher level Gothic bloodlines. At the bottom is a lemon or citrus fruit.
